A 50-year-old female with Marfan syndrome was admitted for cardiogenic shock six years after composite graft and aortic arch replacement including en bloc reimplantation of the brachiocephalic vessels.

Findings: pseudoaneurysm of the aortic arch and ascending aorta from disconnection of brachiocephalic vessels and left coronary ostium with rupture into the left pulmonary artery (Fig. 1).

---

* Corresponding author. Address: Department of Cardiovascular Surgery, University Hospital Berne, Freiburgstrasse 30, 3010 Bern, Switzerland.
Tel.: +41 31 632 2111; fax: +41 31 632 2919.
E-mail address: Ophelie.Loup@insel.ch (O. Loup).

1010-7940/ - see front matter © 2009 European Association for Cardio-Thoracic Surgery. Published by Elsevier B.V. All rights reserved.